Article 82.1 Provision of Deputy Seats to Federal Lists of Candidates Received less than 7 and not less than 5 percent of Votes of Voters Participated in the Voting and not Admitted to Distribution of Deputy Seats

(introduced by the Federal Law of May 12, 2009, No.94-FZ).

1. Before deputy seats are distributed in accordance with Article 83 of this Federal Law, deputy seats are provided to federal lists of candidates that received less than 7 but not less than 5 percent of votes of voters participated in voting and not admitted to distribution of deputy seats. The number of deputy seats provided is determined in accordance with Clauses 2 and 3 of this Article.

2. Federal list of candidates that received less than 6 but not less than 5 percent of votes of voters participated in voting and not admitted to distribution of deputy seats is provided with one deputy seat.

3. Federal list of candidates that received less than 7 but not less than 6 percent of votes of voters participated in voting and not admitted to distribution of deputy seats is provided with two deputy seats.

4. Deputy seats provided in accordance with Clauses 2 and 3 of this Article are received first of all by registered candidates included into all-federal part of the federal list of candidates in the sequence of their placement in this list.

5. If the federal list of candidates that received a deputy seat (deputy seats) does not have an all-federal part, the number of votes is established that were cast for the federal list of candidates in those subjects of the Russian Federation (in groups of subjects of the Russian Federation, on parts of territories of the subjects of the Russian Federation) that correspond to regional groups of candidates that the federal list of candidates was divided into (hereafter - votes cast for regional groups of candidates). At this votes of voters residing outside the territory of the Russian Federation in case of taking of the decision by the political party stipulated by Clause 9.1, Article 36 of this Federal Law, are deemed cast for corresponding regional group of candidates.

6. Deputy seat provided in accordance with Clause 2 of this Article to the federal list of candidates with no all-federal part is given to the first registered candidate included in the regional group of candidates that received the most votes of voters. In case, at equality of votes of voters cast for regional groups of candidates, there is more than one such group, the regional group a registered candidate of which receives a deputy seat is determined in accordance with the order of placement of regional groups in the federal list of candidates.

7. If the all-federal part of the federal list of candidates that received deputy seats in accordance with Clause 3 of this Article includes one registered candidates, the second deputy seat is provided to the first in sequence registered candidate included into regional group of candidates that received the most votes of voters. In case, at equality of votes of voters cast for regional groups of candidates, there is more than one such group, the regional group a registered candidate of which receives a deputy seat is determined in accordance with the order of placement of regional groups in the federal list of candidates.

8. Deputy seats provided in accordance with Clause 3 of this Article to the federal list of candidates with no all-federal part are given to the first in sequence registered candidates included into two regional groups of candidates that received the most of the votes. In case, at equality of votes of voters cast for regional groups of candidates, there are more than two such groups, regional groups the registered candidates of which receive deputy seats, or one of regional groups a registered candidate of which receives a deputy seat, is (are) determined in accordance with the order of placement of regional groups in the federal list of candidates.

9. If the provided deputy seat is vacant, it is given to the first in sequence registered candidate out of registered candidates that did not receive deputy seats and are included into the same regional group of candidates (all-federal part) of the federal list of candidates with the registered candidate the deputy seat of whom is vacant. If in the said regional group of candidates (all-federal part) of the federal list of candidates has no registered candidates that can receive a vacant deputy seat, it is given to the first in sequence registered candidate included into regional group of candidates that received the most votes of voters and registered candidates of which did not receive a deputy seat. In case, at equality of votes of voters cast for regional groups of candidates, there are more such groups than there are deputy seats, the regional group a registered candidate of which receives a deputy seat, is determined in accordance with the order of placement of regional groups in the federal list of candidates.

10. If in the process of provision of deputy seat there are no registered candidates in the federal list of candidates that can receive a vacant deputy seat, this deputy seat remains vacant till the next election of deputies of the State Duma.

Article 83. Methodology of Proportional Distribution of Deputy Seats

1. The Central Election Commission of the Russian Federation shall calculate the sum of votes cast by voters for the federal lists of candidates, included in the distribution of deputy seats, in accordance with the rules set forth in Clauses 7 - 9, Article 82 of this Federal Law. This sum of votes shall be divided by 450 - the number of deputy seats to be distributed in the federal electoral district. In case deputy seats are provided to the federal list of candidates in accordance with Article 82.1) of this Federal Law, the said sum of votes is divided by the number of deputy seats remained after such provision. The result is the first electoral quotient, which is used in the distribution of deputy seats between the federal lists of candidates.

(as amended by the Federal Law of May 12, 2009, No.94-FZ).

2. The number of votes received by each federal list of candidates, included in the distribution of deputy seats, shall be divided by the first electoral quotient calculated in accordance with Clause 1 of this Article. The whole part of the number obtained as a result of such division represents the number of deputy seats to be received by the given federal list of candidates as a result of the primary distribution of deputy seats.

3. If any deputy seats remain undistributed after the primary distribution of deputy seats carried out in accordance with Clause 2 of this Article, secondary distribution of deputy seats shall be carried out. The federal lists of candidates, which have the largest fractional part of the number obtained as a result of the division performed in accordance with Clause 2 of this Article, shall each receive one of the undistributed deputy seats. In case the fractional parts are equal (up to and including the sixth digit after the decimal point) preference shall be given to the federal list of candidates which received more votes.

4. After distribution of deputy seats carried out in accordance with Clause 3 of this Article, deputy seats shall be distributed inside each federal list of candidates between regional groups of candidates and the all-federal part of the federal list (if any). First, deputy seats shall be provided to registered candidates included in the all-federal part of the federal list of candidates, in the sequence of their placement in this list.

5. If, after deputy seats were provided to registered candidates included in the all-federal part of the federal list of candidates, there remain deputy seats due to the given federal list of candidates, such deputy seats shall be distributed inside the federal list of candidates between the regional groups of candidates as follows. The sum of votes cast for the federal list of candidates in the subjects of the Russian Federation (groups of subjects of the Russian Federation, parts of the territory of the subjects of the Russian Federation) to which the regional groups of candidates the federal list of candidates was divided into correspond plus the number of votes cast by voters residing outside the territory of the Russian Federation - if the political party takes a decision mentioned in Clause 9.1, Article 36 of this Federal Law (hereafter - votes cast for regional groups of candidates) shall be divided by the number of deputy seats which remain undistributed inside the federal list of candidates. The result of the division is the second electoral quotient of the given federal list of candidates. The number of votes cast for each regional group of candidates shall be divided by the second electoral quotient. In this case, if the political party takes a decision mentioned in Clause 9.1, Article 36 of this The Federal Law, the votes cast by voters residing outside the territory of the Russian Federation shall be deemed cast for the relevant regional group of candidates. The whole part of the number obtained as a result of such division represents the number of deputy seats to be received by the relevant regional group of candidates. If, after performance of the aforementioned actions, there remain undistributed deputy seats due to the given federal list of candidates, the regional groups of candidates, which have the largest fractional part of the number, obtained as a result of the division of the number of votes cast for each regional group of candidates by the second electoral quotient of the given federal list of candidates, shall each receive one of the undistributed deputy seats. In case the fractional parts are equal preference shall be given to the regional group of candidates which received a larger number of votes. In case if the number of votes of voters cast for regional groups of candidate, the number of such group is more than the number of deputy seats, the regional group of candidates that receives a deputy seat, is determined in accordance with the order of placement of regional groups in the federal list of candidates. (as amended by the Federal Laws of July 21, 2007, No.188-FZ, of May 12, 2009, No.94-FZ).

6. If, in the course of the distribution of deputy seats inside the federal list of candidates, one of or several regional groups of candidates is (are) found to lack the required number of registered candidates, the deputy seats that remain undistributed shall be additionally distributed between the regional groups of the same federal list of candidates in which there are registered candidates who did not receive deputy seats. If, when such additional distribution of deputy seats is to be carried out, there are regional groups of candidates which did not receive deputy seats in the course of their distribution performed in accordance with Clause 5 of this Article and if among such regional groups of candidates there are groups which include registered candidates who did not receive deputy seats, deputy seats shall be given to such regional groups of candidates one deputy seat to each such group, in the same sequence (in accordance with the value of the fractional parts) as was determined on the basis of the initially calculated second electoral quotient. If, in the course of the additional distribution, there remain no regional groups of candidates which received no deputy seats in the course of their distribution in accordance with the values of the fractional parts but some deputy seats still remain undistributed, these deputy seats shall be provided to the regional groups of candidates with the smallest coefficient of additional distribution to be calculated for each regional group of candidates with registered candidate who did not receive deputy seats, one deputy seat to each of such groups. The aforementioned coefficient shall be calculated by dividing the number of deputy seats received by the regional group of candidates by the number of votes which it received. In case these coefficients are equal, deputy seats shall be provided to the regional group of candidates which received the larger number of votes. If, after such distribution, the number of deputy seats available for additional distribution exceeds the number of the regional groups of candidates which are entitled to receive them, additional distribution shall be repeated as many times as necessary, with the said coefficient to be calculated anew each time. Additional distribution of deputy seats shall be also carried out in other cases provided by this Federal Law.

7. If, after the distribution of deputy seats between the federal lists carried out in accordance with Clauses 1 - 3 of this Article, one or several deputy seats have to be additionally distributed between all or some of the federal lists of candidates, such distribution shall be carried out as follows. First, deputy seats shall be given to the federal lists of candidates which received no deputy seats when they were distributed in accordance with the value of the fractional parts as provided by Clause 3 of this Article. Then deputy seats shall be provided in accordance with the coefficient of additional distribution of deputy seats to be calculated for each federal list of candidates by dividing the total number of deputy seats received by the federal list of candidates by the number of votes received by this list. Deputy seats shall be provided to the federal lists of candidates with the smallest value of this coefficient, one to each such list. In the event that the values of this coefficient are equal, the deputy seat shall be provided to the federal list of candidates which received the larger number of votes. If after such distribution the number of deputy seats available for additional distribution is found to be larger than the number of the federal lists of candidates which may receive them, additional distribution shall be repeated as many times as necessary, with the said coefficient to be calculated anew each time. The deputy seats received by a federal list of candidates shall be given to registered candidates included in the all-federal part of the federal list of candidates who did not receive deputy seats or, in the absence of such candidates, to registered candidates from the regional groups of candidates of the given federal list of candidates, in accordance with the additional distribution procedure set forth in Clause 6 of this Article. Federal lists of candidates may participate in the additional distribution only if they have registered candidates who did not receive deputy seats.

8. If, after the initial distribution of deputy seats inside a federal list of candidates, a deputy seat became vacant, this deputy seat shall be given to a registered candidate from the same federal list of candidates. The deputy seat shall be given to the first registered candidate in the sequence of registered candidates who did not receive deputy seats and who are included in the same regional group of candidates (in the all-federal part of the federal list of candidates) as the registered candidate whose deputy seat became vacant. If there are no registered candidates in the given regional group of candidates (in the all-federal part of the federal list of candidates) who did not receive deputy seats, the vacant deputy seat shall be distributed between the other regional groups of candidates of the same federal list of candidates in accordance with the additional distribution procedure set forth in Clause 6 of this Article.

9. If, in the course of the distribution of deputy seats inside a federal list of candidates, there remain no registered candidates who did not received deputy seats, the undistributed deputy seats shall remain vacant until the next election of deputies of the State Duma, save as otherwise provided by Clause 10 of this Article.

10. If, as a result of the implementation of the provisions of Clause 9 of this Article, the composition of the State Duma becomes legally incompetent to exercise its powers, the undistributed deputy seats shall be provided to the federal lists of candidates not admitted to distribution of deputy seats in accordance with the requirements of Clauses 7 - 9, Article 82 of this Federal Law and which received the number of votes exceeding the first electoral quotient. In this case, each of such federal lists of candidates may receive a number of deputy seats which does not exceed the number which it might have received if it had been admitted to distribution of deputy seats together with the federal lists of candidates mentioned in Clauses 7 - 9, Article 82 of this The Federal Law (with account of deputy seats received in accordance with Article 82.1 of this Federal Law). Such deputy seats shall be distributed between the federal lists of candidates not admitted to distribution of deputy seats in accordance with the requirements of Clauses 7 - 9, Article 82 of this Federal Law and which received the number of votes exceeding the first electoral quotient, in proportion to the number of votes received by them, in accordance with the methodology of distribution of deputy seats set forth in this article.

(as amended by the Federal Law of May 12, 2009, No.94-FZ).

(Clause 2.2 introduced by the Federal Law of April 26, 2007, No.64-FZ, as amended by the Federal Law of May 12, 2009, No.94-FZ).
