LA SOUFRANCE DE L'HOMME PENDANT LA GUERRE.

Towards a political economy of care?

A ‘political economy’ considers the rules of production, the systems of accumulation and the ways in which resources are distributed across people and polities

(ref. Adam Smith)

- understand interconnecting systems linked over time and across geographical space
- consider how the laws and policies around the accumulation of wealth, land holding, taxation and redistribution…are determined through political processes.
- ‘Benefits’ of violence? (ref. David Keen)
