Globethics.net

Annual Report | 2012

Introduction

People with values meet people with values

Young people in India go out on to the streets to protest against rape, entrepreneurs develop innovative environmental technologies, adults care for their parents to ensure that they age with dignity, medical doctors serve in remote rural areas with lower salaries than in prestigious hospitals, students do their masters on corporate responsibility, parliamentarians develop stronger banking regulations to stabilise economies, professors develop new curricula for ethics in business schools. They are all people with values who try to implement values in their professional and private life.

“People with Values” is the motto of the Globethics.net four-year Strategy 2012-2015. This report shows some highlights of the fascinating global community of over 75’000 people from 200 countries and territories that are committed to making a difference, to tackle greed, inequality, corruption and the exploitation of nature.

We are very thankful to the Board, the staff in Geneva and the regional programmes, the participants and volunteers and especially to the donors for all their input, encouragement and support.

Highlights

Strategy 2012-2015 rolled out

In 2012 the new four-year strategic period started for Globethics.net with the aim of continuation and expansion. The activities in 2012 were fully in line with this mid-term strategy. In 2012 there was

- | Growth in the number of registered participants from 43’127 to 71’411
- | Increase in the number of visits to the website from 454’566 to 559’000
- | Development of the global online library on ethics launched in 2008 and of a second section on theology and ecumenism launched in 2011 and the start of the African Law Library project in October 2012

Over 1.17 million full text articles and books at the end of 2012 in the library with an increasing number of downloads, especially from developing and emerging countries

- | Daily online newsfeed on ethics in five languages with a selection from 100’000 sources
- | Globethics.net enjoys a broad base of over 100 partnership agreements for general cooperation, for the library, for projects including the Global Ethics Forum and with 23 members of the Theological Library Consortium. Partners include global and continental professional ethics networks, project partners, funding partners, scientific partners, media partners and library partners.

In addition to the Head Office in Geneva, Regional Programmes with offices are operating in China, Indonesia, India, East Africa (Kenya) and a new programme was opened in Franco-phone Africa (Benin) in 2012 and National Contacts in over 30 countries have been prepared

The income was more than doubled from 1,2 million Swiss Francs in 2011 to 2,79 million Swiss Francs in 2012.

Network

Connecting with peers and partners

Registered participants

More than 28'000 new participants registered on the Globethics.net platform in 2012, an average of 80 per day.

The regional programmes play a central role in strengthening the network. Asia remains the champion, especially since India and Indonesia, two of the Globethics.net regional programmes both reached 10'000 participants in 2012. At the end of the year, both countries reached over 11'000. More people from China are now joining the network. Participants in Malaysia, the Philippines, Pakistan and other countries are active. It can be clearly seen on the map that most of the activity on the website is concentrated in this region of the world. The second biggest group of participants is the African continent. This is an important step since the establishment of the regional programme in East Africa in 2011 and the opening of the Francophone Africa regional programme based in Cotonou/Benin in 2012. Sub-Saharan Africa counts for more than 7'000 participants and together with the Middle East and North Africa the total is more than 13'000 participants. It is expected that this number will increase even more with the development and launch of the African Law Library later in 2013.

Globethics.net participants come from more than 200 countries and territories around the world. The table below lists the top 10 countries.

Participants by Country

India	11'751
Indonesia	11'247

China	3'200
Malaysia	3'053
United States	2'951
Philippines	2'949
Pakistan	2'575
Nigeria	1'976
Egypt	1'662
United Kingdom and Thailand	1'265 (tied)

Registered Participants - 2006 to 2012

Directories and registered organisations

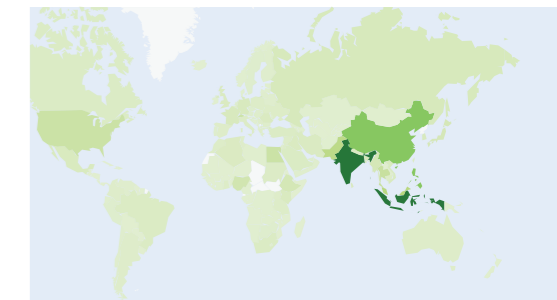

Three specialised searchable online databases are available on the Globethics.net platform: 1) the Directory of Ethics and Responsibility; 2) the Directory of Business Ethics Organisations (these two directories list more than 1'600 organisations from all continents; and 3) the Directory of Business Ethics Experts includes around 450 individual experts. A fourth one was launched in March 2013, the Directory of Global Theological Education with more than 7'000 institutions.

Follow ethics, Follow Globethics

In 2012 the number of fans of the Globethics.net Facebook page more than doubled from 719 to 1'608 fans. Facebook members can follow Globethics.net online at <https://www.facebook.com/Globethics.net> where they can find the latest news about ethics and share their opinions. For a more intimate and collaborative communication Globethics.net is on Twitter@Globethicsnet. Twitter gives users the possibility to quickly share information and connect to other similar profiles. On LinkedIn members can follow the company profile of Globethics.net The social network strategy is still at the beginning and will be further developed.

For pictures and videos of events visit the Globethics.net pages on Flickr (<http://www.flickr.com/photos/globethicsnet/>) and YouTube (<http://www.youtube.com/user/Globethics>).

In 2012 visitors from over 200 countries and territories paid more than 559'000 visits with more than 1'702'000 page views.

The darker the green, the more visits from a country.

Library

New synergies and partnerships

Globethics.net launched the Global Digital Library on Ethics (GlobeEthicsLib) in 2008 to ensure that persons — especially in developing and transition countries — have access to high quality and up to date knowledge resources, to enable them to become more visible and audible in the global conversation on ethics.

The Globethics.net online libraries now offer free-of-charge access to more than 1.17 million documents covering all aspects of ethics and related disciplines, an increase of 145'000 documents over the past year. The libraries are unique in offering participants access to documents and articles from four different sources using one online search engine:

- | journals, handbooks and reference works from commercial publishers, with institutional subscription fees paid by Globethics.net;
- | articles harvested from Open Access repositories worldwide, using specially developed sets of keywords to identify material specially relevant for ethics and related disciplines from among the tens of millions of documents available;
- | journals and documents from partner institutions, many of them available through special collections;
- | documents uploaded directly by Globethics.net participants which are available in the online library.

Globethics.net worked in 2012 to develop a new query tool to improve the quality as well as the quantity of documents harvested from Open Access Repositories. Globethics.net in partnership with the software company Point Software selects from 3000 Open Repositories with 50 Mio documents.

An online survey of library users in English, Indonesian, Chinese and French was conducted in 2012. This showed that 69% of respondents used the libraries for research for school/university, 40% for work/professional development, 33% to download documents, 19% to update earlier information, 17% for the news, and 16% from personal interest. Among other results, 40% of respondents agreed that using the libraries helps them making decisions about issues to do with values/ethics in their lives.

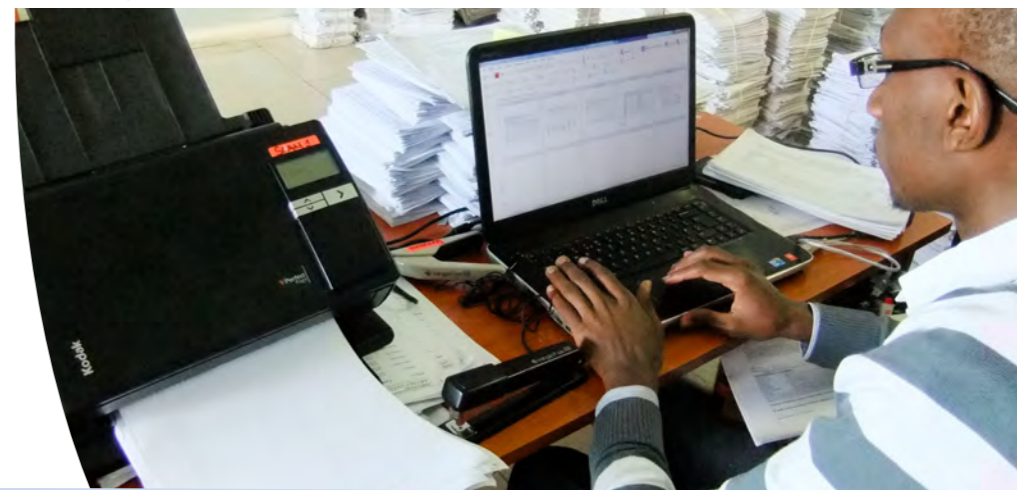

GlobeEthicsLib

In 2012, GlobeEthicsLib launched specialised thematic collections on Islamic Ethics and Health Ethics. In addition, in cooperation with Globethics.net China in Beijing, a collection with over 2'000 documents on Chinese Ethics as well as a collection on Confucian ethics were launched.

Institutional collections were created for the Robin Cosgrove Prize, which makes awards for creative, unpublished papers setting out innovative ideas for promoting ethics in finance; the Institute for Business Ethics St Gallen, Switzerland; the Earth Charter Initiative; and the International Council on Human Rights Policy.

Meeting of Consortium members of GlobeTheoLib

GlobeTheoLib

Globethics.net continued to develop the Global Digital Library on Theology and Ecumenism (GlobeTheoLib) launched in 2011 in cooperation with the World Council of Churches. In 2012, GlobeTheoLib developed partnerships and regional initiatives in Africa, Asia and Latin America to increase content from these continents in the online library and to increase the accessibility of the resources of GlobeTheoLib – which now include more than 656'000 full text documents. Special institutional collections were created for the Ecumenical Theological Education programme of the World Council of Churches, the Lutheran World Federation, and library agreements were signed with, among others, the Latin American Council of Churches (CLAI), and the International Commission of the Ecumenical Association of Third World Theologians (EATWOT).

AfricanLawLibrary

The African Innovation Foundation AIF mandated Globethics.net mid 2012 to develop and implement the African Online Library on Law and Governance (AfricanLawLibrary) on the Globethics.net platform. Three full time staff have been engaged and the public launch is planned for October 2013. Access to law and court decisions contributes to investments, governance and human rights. It aims to be the leading online portal on law and governance in Africa and will offer a multilingual online library with full-text, free access to legal and other texts; online networking across Africa; and facilities for comparative research. It is aimed at academic, political, legal and business sectors and NGOs. National and other partners across Africa will support the project. Initial target countries for the first phase are Morocco, Senegal, Cameroon, Kenya, South Africa, Angola, Nigeria and Ethiopia.

Facts, Figures

As at the end of December 2012, the Globethics.net libraries included:

- | 1'173'609 full text documents (1'053'965 scientific articles; 88'036 entries from reference books)
- | 17'192 documents submitted by Globethics.net participants and the international team of submitters and reviewers
- | 31 special collections
- | More than 335 Journals
- | More than 352 reference works

On average, more than 6'100 documents were downloaded from the libraries each month, in total more than 70'000 in 2012.

Outcome and Impact measurement

What is the impact of a global online library on awareness and concrete decisions of the users and on development of society? This is very difficult to measure as it is the case for all educational efforts and physical libraries. The participants' survey 2012 with over 2,000 responses from all continents gave important indications: the libraries support users especially in their professional development and ethical decisions. The network encourages them to be less isolated in their effort for ethical behaviour. The report is available on request from infoweb@globethics.net. Additional tools on qualitative impact measurement are in preparation. The work programmes are annually evaluated with over 100 indicators for quantitative and qualitative output, outcome and impact.

Workgroups

Research across borders

The Globethics.net workgroups function as online communities in action. There are more than 30 workgroups active on the Globethics.net platform. They have from five to 20 participants conducting research, reviewing literature, sharing views, discussing issues of interest, preparing conferences or holding online seminars.

In August 2012, the Code of Ethics for Librarians and other Information Workers was adopted by the International Federation of Library Associations (IFLA). Globethics.net actively contributed to the elaboration of the code with Amélie Vallotton Preisig, former librarian of Globethics.net, was a member of the committee that developed the code using the online work-groups. Another example is the Global Ecumenical Theological Institute (GETI), which is a major event for about 150 younger advanced theology students from all regions of the world and all Christian denominations that will take place in Busan/Korea in November 2013. The preparation started with the online workgroup in the second half of 2012 to discuss and communicate with the participants of the GETI. Other workgroups are currently working on business ethics for small and medium enterprises (SMEs) and certification, a competition on corporate social responsibility (CSR) in China, on ethics in politics and on innovation ethics.

Global Ethics Forum 2012

Seeds for Successful Transformation

The Global Ethics Forum (GEF) 2012 conference took place in Geneva / Switzerland, over four days from 27 to 30 June, including pre-meetings of GEF Workgroups and a post-conference workshop. More than 240 participants, from 47 countries, and 76 speakers from all continents – business leaders, government and civil society representatives, practitioners, academics, and international experts – took part in the intensive discussions and presented concrete cases and proposals for ethical transformation in the current political, financial, educational, social and corporate systems.

The GEF 2012 focused on the continuing financial crisis and the crisis of sustainability after Rio+20 as two key challenges in the transformation towards an ethical economy addressed in the two panels of experts and influential leaders that took place on day one. Twelve thematic workshops, each led by a GEF Workgroup, took central stage during the conference, showcased solutions and tools, and led constructive discussions with the audience representing different sectors. To focus further on the practical application of business ethics, GEF 2012 for the first time featured interview sessions where companies, public-sector representatives and NGOs shared their experiences, efforts and best practices in successful ethical transformation.

The post-conference workshop on next steps was attended by more than 50 conference participants who agreed on which of the GEF Workgroups should continue to work in 2013. Recommendations were also made on the next global GEF conference to take place in 2014 outside Switzerland in one of the emerging economic regions of the world, while in 2013 a smaller GEF event should be organised in Geneva to facilitate the GEF Workgroups progress and the preparation for GEF 2014.

The Global Ethics Forum is a multi-year project organised by Globethics.net that provides a platform for dialogue, reflection and training, leadership and action to stakeholders in the private sector and all sectors worldwide on business ethics, corporate social responsibility and sustainable development. The 2012 conference was an important milestone in the on-going process and in the continuing work of the GEF participants on key business ethics challenges.

“The Global Ethics Forum provides an ideal platform to discuss and debate the burning issues of the day. Interaction leads to insight, and insight leads to impact. Interaction, insight and impact – the three “Is” – are what is needed to make progress on the world’s pressing problems, offer leadership, and move to sustainable, inclusive growth.”

S.D. Shibulal, CEO and Co-Founder of Infosys Technologies, India, and Co-Chair of the Forum

Globethics Services

Training and certification for SMEs

In 2012 Globethics.net continued to provide open access to various business ethics services for its members, including: the leading Globethics.net on-line libraries, especially the African Law Library, ethics news in six languages, CSR News service, the Global Ethics Forum workgroups and conference, and the Directory of Business Ethics Experts (GEDOBEE), which continued its expansion in 2012. In addition, in 2012 Globethics.net began building a platform for provision of customised services and development of practical projects that are predominantly demand-driven, in response to requests from and based on funds provided by partners and participants, or are paid-for services.

Based on the specific request and provision of funding from a partner in China, in October 2012 Globethics.net launched a new project for development of a Business Ethics Certificate for small and medium enterprises (SMEs) in China. In parallel, a new Global Ethics Forum workgroup on SMEs ethics and corporate social responsibility (CSR) was established at the Global Ethics Forum 2012, aiming at development of certifiable SME Training Programme on Ethics and CSR. The two initiatives have the potential to complement each other and to be aligned in the future.

Regional Programmes

China, Indonesia, India, East and West Africa

Globethics.net is a global network that exists in regional contexts. Regional programmes have been established since 2009 to further enrich global outreach by opening up offices with local contacts and resources and to create a balance between global and contextual ethics. The regional programmes identify and include ethics resources from their regions in the global library, attract new participants, translate website content and documents, engage in regional research programmes and moderate local workgroups.

Each regional programme has a group of two to three directors who hold senior academic or other professional posts and a part-time programme executive.

In 2012 Globethics.net supported the development of the four regional programmes in China, Indonesia, India and East Africa and opened a new programme in Francophone Africa based in Benin. Visits were carried out to all the programmes in 2012 to monitor and evaluate activities and to plan for the following year.

Globethics.net China

Globethics.net China started in 2009 and is hosted and coordinated by the Centre for International Business Ethics (CIBE). CIBE, based at the University of International Business and Economics, Beijing, is an international non-profit research institution. It aims to integrate ethics into business strategies by facilitating dialogue between business people and scholars through conferences and training seminars. In 2012 the team in China launched two special collections in the library on Confucian ethics and on Chinese ethics as well as adding content in Chinese.

Globethics.net Indonesia

Globethics.net Indonesia started in 2010 and is hosted and coordinated by the Indonesian Consortium for Religious Studies (ICRS) in Yogyakarta. ICRS-Yogya is a consortium of three universities that together offer an international PhD programme in interreligious studies co-sponsored by Muslim, Christian, and national-secular universities. The second largest group of registered participants of Globethics.net is from Indonesia, with 12'000 persons registered in April 2012. The Indonesian office launched the special collection on Islamic Ethics in March 2012 and continues to integrate a substantial amount of Indonesian documents and journal articles to the library. The team organised a workshop on 'Social Ethics for Interreligious Interactions' with a view to publishing a training manual and has published two volumes in the Globethics.net Focus series (no. 6 and 7) on ethics in Indonesia. They are planning to publish a book on gender ethics with ICRS-Yogya in 2013.

Globethics.net India

Globethics.net India was formally established in September 2010. The programme

Above: Globethics.net Indonesia: Conference on Islamic Ethics, March 2012, Yogyakarta

Below: Globethics.net conference on governance, ethics and information technologie, August 2012, Yaounde/Cameroon is hosted and coordinated by Dharmaram Vidya Kshetram College in Bangalore. The team of directors represents various fields of ethics and Indian society: philosophical Indian ethics, business ethics and community and development ethics. India has the largest number of registered participants with over 12'000 people in April 2012. The India office has integrated a substantial amount of documents in the library.

Globethics.net East Africa

The Kenya based regional programme for East Africa was established in March 2011 with the Catholic University of East Africa (CUEA). The Advisory Board was established in 2011 and has met regularly to develop their outreach strategy to make Globethics.net known in the region. An essay competition was organised in 2012 and Advisory Board members took part in national and regional conferences to promote Globethics.net. The regional office took an active part in the election process in Kenya that took place in March 2012 by organising public debates with candidates.

Globethics.net Francophone Africa

The regional programme in Francophone Africa started in August 2012. The host and partner institution is dynamique OSCAF, a network of non-governmental organisations in almost 20 francophone countries in Africa with its head office in Cotonou (Benin).

<http://www.globethics.net/web/ge/about-us/regional-programmes>

National Contacts

In November 2012 the Globethics.net Board of Foundation decided to develop a network of Globethics.net National Contacts alongside the Regional Programmes as a way to respond to demands and offers from individuals and organisations for services in their countries. The invitation was launched on the website and in the newsletter for those interested to apply to become National Contacts. In March 2013 National Contacts were appointed from 32 countries in four continents. The list is available at <http://www.globethics.net/web/ge/globethics.net-national-contacts>

Partnerships

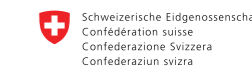

Over 100 partner institutions

In order to strengthen ethics on a global level, partnerships with specialised organisations are key for Globethics.net. New partners in 2012 include academic ethics centers such as the Institute for Social Ethics in Vienna/Austria, the Confucian Institute at Renmin University in Beijing/China, the Centre for the Study of Global Christianity in South Hamilton/USA, training centers such as Shenyang Christ Management Consulting in Shenyang/China, educational and media networks such as the Catholic Internet TV Network CITVN in USA. For the African Law Library, partnerships started to be signed with national partners such as the Kenyan National Council for Law Reporting NCLR.

Partnership agreements include 5 Regional Programme partners, over 35 National Contacts (as of 2013), 6 scientific ethics networks, over 25 library partners, 3 network partners, 17 funding and project partners, 4 service partners, 4 media networks, 23 consortium partners for GlobeTheoLib and 35 partners for the Global Ethics Forum — some overlapping — represent far more than 100 different global, continental and local partners.

ECOSOC Status

In 2012, Globethics.net was granted ECOSOC Status at the United Nations which enables a broad participation in UN conferences and events. The main focus for Globethics.net is to contribute to the WSIS+10 review process for the information and knowledge society.
